Part B - Principles of HE Non-Award Courses

(7) A Non-Award course is a course offered and/or developed by the University for educational, personal, or professional development purposes, which does not result in issuing of a Victoria University (VU) testamur.

(8) VU clearly distinguishes Non-Award courses from Award courses through assigning specific codes and titles.

(9) VU is transparent with applicants and students about the status of the course they wish to study, ensuring that Non-Award students understand that their studies will not lead to an Award of the University.

(10) Design of Non-Award courses is based on:

- a. Proposed student cohort (ie. domestic, international on-shore or international off-shore); and
- b. Proposed course outcomes, specifically if they will be assessed (and therefore potentially credit-bearing) or not.

(11) Non-Award courses may not contain any accredited Award units.
