- c. The content and learning activities of the course must be of a sufficiently advanced level and otherwise appropriate to higher education, and be consistent with the field of education and the level of qualification involved.
- (28) Award courses must be designed so that each of the component units meaningfully contributes to the acquisition of course-level learning outcomes.
- (29) Teaching approaches and learning activities employed in units must be designed to contribute to students achieving the course-level outcomes and Graduate Capabilities.

(30) Award Courses must:

- a. be transparent and readily intelligible to students and staff;
- b. provide high quality course offerings across the range of disciplines taught by the University;
- c. enhance portability of credit transfer across the University itself and of VU's awards across the Australian university sector;
- d. contribute to a rational suite of course offerings;
- e. not contain Non-Award units;
- f. not contain a mixture of undergraduate and postgraduate units; and
- g. not contain VET accredited units.
