(4) General admission criteria/university entry requirements: The University-wide entry requirements that applicants must satisfy to be eligible for selection to each level of course offered by the University

(5) Selection criteria/admission requirements: The requirement that an applicant must satisfy in order to be eligible for selection into a course

(8) Selection methodology: The methodology employed to decide whom amongst the eligible applicants will be selected to be made an offer of a place in the course for which they applied. Selection methodology is usually used in cases where a course is competitive (more applications than places available) and applicants are ranked, selection methodology includes ranking methodology.

Section 4 - Policy Statement

(14) Victoria University believes in equal access to educational opportunities by people of all backgrounds, experiences, and abilities, provided that the University has assessed the applicant as being a genuine temporary entrant in the case of international students.

(15) Victoria University actively seeks to engage with and serve the community, especially the residents of the western region of Melbourne.

(16) For these reasons, it is the University's goal, where possible, to be able to offer every applicant a place, whether in the course or program to which they apply, or in another suitable course. This may include the offer of a combined or preliminary course to address particular learning needs of the student (eg. an English language intensive course as a precursor to an award course).

(17) In order to be eligible for selection an applicant must satisfy University-wide entry requirements and course entry requirements

(18) Satisfaction of these requirements permits an applicant to be considered for a place, it does not guarantee an offer of a place.

Part A - Basis for Admission

(19) Admission offers are made to applicants who are judged to:

- a. have the background and abilities to have a reasonable expectation of success in the course to which they are made an offer or a substitute course if appropriate and identified by the University, and
- b. who are likely to benefit from University study.

(20) Admission offers are made on merit based on demonstrated achievement. Victoria University assesses merit and suitability of candidates broadly, considering:

- a. Academic attainment;
- b. Professional experience and expertise;
- c. Other life experience with a demonstrable relevance to the field of study.

(22) Victoria University uses multiple modes of entry in admitting students, including but not limited to:

- a. Direct applications

- e. Trade-based admission to apprenticeship courses

(23) Victoria University will not offer places in specific courses in excess of what the University reasonably believes it can service.

- a. In particular, applicants for higher degree by research places will be assessed for suitability against the available pool of expert supervisors to ensure that the University can properly acquit its responsibility to the applicant.
