(16) Respondent: The person whose behaviour is the subject of a disclosure or report.

(17) Sexual Assault: A range of unwanted sexual behaviours, which constitute a crime, whereby a person is forced, coerced or tricked into sexual acts without their consent, including when they have withdrawn their consent. This includes:

Part B - Procedural Principles

(22) These Procedures are informed by Universities Australia 'Guidelines for University Responses to Sexual Assault and Sexual Harassment', and are guided by the following principles:

- Compassion: The University's response will validate the experiences and feelings of an individual subjected to sexual assault by being compassionate, empathic and supportive. The University will respond respectfully and meaningfully to an individual making a disclosure.
- Support and Assistance: the University commits to providing support and assistance to the individual and to ensuring their safety and wellbeing. Procedures will avoid causing further harm or any penalty to the victim/survivor, including minimising the number of times they need to recount their experience.
- Confidentiality and Privacy: The confidentiality and privacy of the individual who discloses sexual assault needs to be protected. In addition, they have the right to decide if they want to make a report to the police (noting that the University may be obliged to report incidents to external agencies in certain circumstances, as per Clause 26).
- Cultural Competence: The University recognises the need to respond to disclosures in a culturally competent way.

- e. Procedural Fairness: The University recognises and respects the principles of natural justice and procedural fairness when considering any actions stemming from this Procedure.
- f. Allegations of sexual offences are complex, serious and sensitive matters that have far reaching implications for everyone involved. They require careful consideration by the University in regard to the appropriate steps to be taken. Each instance requires a tailored response, including consideration of any urgent time constraints.
- g. You are entitled to have a support person, or people, with you when you disclose; or access University services.
- h. The University can provide an interpreter service if required.

With the agreement of you, staff will facilitate initial contact with and transport to a CASA.

(26) The SCU or P&C will be mindful that they may be the first person you speak to about an alleged offence, and will take actions to minimise the number of times you need to recount the experience.

(27) In addition, the SCU or P&C will encourage you to seek advice and support from Counselling Services (students) or the Employee Assistance Program \(EAP\) (Staff).

Reporting Options

(28) After making a disclosure, you may choose:

- a. Referral to a CASA: The SCU or P&C will refer you to a CASA who will assist you in determining whether you wish to report the offence to the Police. As well as providing support during the police reporting process and forensic examination process, the CASA also provides longer term support and advocacy on your behalf. In referring you to the CASA, the SCU or P&C will advise you to raise any issues with the CASA that you would like the University to address. The CASA will then liaise with VU on your behalf where action is required.
- b. Reporting to Police: The SCU or P&C will provide information to you about the options available to you to report the matter to the Police. If you request, the SCU or the P&C will assist you to contact the Police; accompany you; and provide transport for you to attend a police station.

Reporting matters to the Police

(29) The University will respect an individual's decision NOT to make a report to the Police. However, the University will:

- a. Consider advising the Police of relevant non-identifiable information if the University has information that indicates non-reporting to the Police may place members of the University or general community at serious and imminent risk. Wherever possible the University will refrain from providing personal information of the victim/survivor.
- b. In rare cases, where there is a strong concern that a report is required in order to prevent a further crime from occurring or to prevent harm to you or to others, the University may still proceed to make a police report.
- c. Make a report to Police or other regulatory body when mandatory reporting is required.
- d. If the University determines that it is necessary to report an alleged crime to police against your wishes, this action and the reasons for it will be explained to you. Such action will only be taken in extreme situations.

(30) The University may assist an individual to report the incident to Police, however cannot make a report on behalf of the individual other than as detailed above in Clause 26.

Anonymous reports

(31) The University's ability to respond to anonymous reports is limited. If possible, the University may contact those disclosing an instance of sexual assault to provide advice about options and referrals to support services.

(32) The allegation will be cross-referenced with other information to determine whether the report may be related to other matters already known to the University.

(33) The University will consider what, if any, reasonable action is necessary to protect the wellbeing or safety of the University community.

(34) After making reasonable enquiries, the University may, where necessary, refer the report to the Police.

If an allegation is made that you have sexually assaulted someone

(35) If a formal allegation is made against you, the University will:

- a. provide you with support and assistance, including:

- i. access to information about appropriate emergency health and counselling; and,
- ii. referral to internal and external support services.

(36) Where a matter is referred to Victoria Police, the University will cooperate fully with the police inquiry.

(37) If the University determines it necessary to protect the safety and wellbeing of the victim/survivor, you may be subject to measures while a police investigation is ongoing, and/or upon advice from the CASA, including:

- a. Suspension or exclusion from the University in accordance with section 41 of the Governance, Academic and Student Affairs Statute 2013.
- b. Imposing restrictions on your presence on University premises in accordance with section 51 of the Governance, Academic and Student Affairs Statute 2013.

(38) Disciplinary action will also be taken against anyone who retaliates against or victimises a person who has made a disclosure or police report.

Informing Colleges and Departments on introduction of safety measures and considerations

(39) Where there may be an ongoing risk to the broader University community, the SCU and P&C are responsible for identifying risk and implementing appropriate actions to ameliorate that risk and to provide a safe work and study environment. This may include providing safe places to work/study at the University for both the complainant and the alleged perpetrator.

Ongoing Support and Assistance

(40) In consultation with the relevant College/Department, ongoing support may be offered to any individual involved in and impacted by an alleged sexual offence, such as support or counselling from an appropriate health practitioner, or any academic support where the alleged sexual offence adversely impacts on a student's studies.

Student Special Consideration Arrangements

(41) In some cases, students who have experienced sexual violence may require access to the University's special consideration procedures (please refer to the Assessment for Learning - Adjustments to Assessment Procedure \(HE\), Assessment for Learning - Assessment Procedure \(VET\) or Assessment for Learning - Resulting Procedure \(VET\)). Students do not need to make a formal report of their experience to apply for special consideration. At the time of disclosure, the student will be provided with details of the relevant procedure to support special consideration. The Safer Communities Unit will be required to endorse the special consideration application.

(42) As a general principle, where special consideration is sought or granted the University will endeavour to protect the confidentiality and privacy of the student by limiting the circulation of any information about the nature of the special consideration as much as the circumstances allow.

Staff Leave Provisions

(43) In some cases, staff who have experienced sexual violence may require access to the University's leave provisions. At the time of disclosure, the Staff member will be provided with details of the relevant procedure to support such leave. People and Culture will be required to endorse such an application.

False, vexatious or frivolous allegations

(44) Any person who knowingly makes a false, vexatious or frivolous allegation in connection with an allegation of a sexual offence may be subject to disciplinary action in accordance with the University regulations, policies and

procedures.

After a matter is completed

(45) After finalisation of any police action or advice from the CASA, the University will continue to provide assistance and support measures as required to:

- a. protect the safety and welfare of all parties, and
- b. facilitate the recovery of any person who has been sexually assaulted.

(46) If you are charged and found guilty of committing a sexual assault and/or the University determines there is a continuing risk to the victim/survivor and/or others, you may be subject to disciplinary action under the relevant University Policy.

Privacy and Record Retention

(47) Any use or disclosure of information gathered by the University in the process of managing an allegation or disclosure of a sexual offence will be on a 'need to know' basis, in compliance with the University's privacy obligations and will be kept confidential to the extent possible.
